Abstract	In the 1980s, Dr. William M. Valenti became an early leader in the treatment of HIV/AIDS patients in Rochester, NY. The collection documents his career as a physician and as founder of Community Health Network, Inc., a not-for-profit community based medical facility for HIV care. The collection also documents the global medical response to the emergence of HIV/AIDS and changing cultural attitudes towards those infected with the virus. The collection includes published books and periodicals, newspaper clippings, and a small amount of graphic and audiovisual material.

Biographical note

Dr. William M. Valenti was born in 1945 and grew up in the Rochester suburb of Irondequoit, graduating from Eastridge High School in 1963. After earning a B.A. from the State University of New York at Buffalo in 1968 and M.D. from the Medical College of Wisconsin in 1972, he returned to Rochester to complete postdoctoral training in infectious diseases at the University of Rochester. He joined the faculty of the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry in 1975.

When AIDS emerged as a public health crisis in the early 1980s, Dr. Valenti became one of the foremost local experts on the disease. He worked closely with local media to provide authoritative information, appearing frequently in print and television features on AIDS. In 1989, Dr. Valenti and Dr. Stephen Scheibel co-founded Community Health Network, Inc., a not-for-profit community based medical facility for HIV care in Rochester. By 2009, Community Health Network (by then known as AIDS Community Health Center) would have a staff of 60 serving 600 patients. In 1995, Dr. Valenti became the Medical Director of Rochester Primary Care Network, a consortium of 11 community health centers providing medical care to underserved populations. On January 1, 2010, AIDS Community Health Center merged with AIDS Rochester to form Trillium Health, expanding its services to provide primary, non-HIV related health care to the LGBTQ community in the Rochester region.

As of 2016, Dr. Valenti serves on the staff of Trillium Health as Senior Vice President for Strategic Advancement and Staff Physician. He is a Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine at the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry, and a fellow of the Infectious Diseases Society of America. He serves as Chair of the Infectious Diseases Subcommittee of the Medical Society of New York and recently served as Chair of the Hepatitis C Guidelines Committee for the New York State Department of Health.

Over the course of his career, Dr. Valenti has participated in numerous professional groups, including the Monroe County Medical Society, the New York State Health Department AIDS Institute, the American Medical Association, Association for Professionals in Infection Control, Physicians Association for AIDS Care (PAAC), and the HIV Medicine Association. He is a past editor of NUMEDX.com, The AIDS Reader/Medscape, and the American Journal of Infection Control. He has published more than 150 peer-reviewed articles, book chapters, and scientific abstracts.

Scope and Contents

In addition to documenting Dr. Valenti's professional career, the collection provides background on the progress of HIV/AIDS treatment, the global and local (Rochester, NY) response to AIDS as a public health crisis, and changing cultural attitudes towards patients. The collection includes materials related to Rochester-area AIDS organizations with which Dr. Valenti was associated, including AIDS Rochester, Rochester Area Task Force on AIDS, Community Health Network, Inc., and the AIDS Resource Library at Monroe Community College.

The collection is comprised of both published and unpublished materials. Published materials include books, journals, journal articles, pamphlets, brochures, newspaper clippings, training materials, conference proceedings, and other formats. Unpublished materials include working copies of some of Dr. Valenti's professional writing projects, correspondence, awards, and yearly desktop organizers. There are also a small number of photographs, slides, and audio and video recordings.

The bulk of the materials date from the time period 1985-1999, with a smaller amount of material from earlier and later dates.

Arrangement

No usable original order was apparent when the collection was received, so the current arrangement was imposed during processing.

The collection has been arranged into five series. Series 1: William M. Valenti biographical and career information (which consists of subseries Awards, Conferences, Correspondence, Curriculum vitae, Lectures, Newspaper clippings, Organizers, and Publications); Series 2: Professional associations (Medical Society of the State of New York, New York Academy of Medicine, New York State Department of Health, New York State Department of Health AIDS Institute); Series 3: Research material (Books, General interest periodicals, Journal articles, Journals, Newspaper clippings, Pamphlets/miscellaneous print material, and Slide presentations); Series 4: Rochester-area AIDS organizations (AIDS Resource Library, Community Health Network, Rochester Area Task Force on AIDS, and Miscellaneous organizations), and Series 5: Audiovisual material (Sound recordings and Video recordings).

Access

There are no known restrictions on the use of this collection.

Use

Permission to publish, reproduce, distribute, or use in any current or future manifestations must be obtained from Dr. Valenti and the Rochester Medical Museum and Archives.

Custodial History

The collection was transferred to the Rochester Medical Museum and Archives c. 2006, after being housed for an unknown number of years at Monroe Community College. A small amount of material has been added to the collection between 2006-2016, mainly newspaper clippings.

Processing Information

Metal fasteners were removed and replaced with plastic clips. Materials were housed in acid-free, lignin-free folders. Newspaper clippings were copied onto standard office copier paper. Original folder titles have been retained when possible.

Materials that were originally gathered and arranged in three-ring binders have been rehoused in folders and the binders discarded. In the case of slides, which are found in both Series 1 and Series 3, the graphic materials are housed in slide storage boxes while the accompanying text documentation is housed separately in document boxes.

Series 1: William M. Valenti biographical and career information,Collection Inventory

Series 1: William M. Valenti biographical and career information, 1977-2016 14.01 Linear feet (20 document boxes, 4 flat storage boxes)

Scope and Contents

This series documents Dr. Valenti's professional career, including his education, teaching career at the University of Rochester, awards received from professional groups and local (Rochester, NY) organizations, conferences attended, and publications. Materials consist of published and unpublished writings; correspondence; curriculum vitae; desk organizers showing day-to-day meetings and activities; lecture slides; topical subject files consisting of both published and unpublished materials; and newspaper clippings, many of which quote or interview Dr. Valenti as an expert on HIV/AIDS.

The slides found in this series consist of slides organized by Dr. Valenti into lecture presentations. Some of the slides appear to have been created by Dr. Valenti, while others appear to have been selected from slide presentations published by private companies (such as drug manufacturers), by government organizations, and by other academics. (See also the published slide presentations found in the "Research material" series of this collection.)

Series 3: Research material, approximately 1970-2000 17.67 Linear feet (23.5 document boxes, 1.5 slide boxes, 114 books)

Scope and Contents

This series contains published materials dealing with the medical study and treatment of HIV/AIDS, as well as changing cultural attitudes towards HIV/AIDS as a public health crisis. Materials include articles from scholarly and professional journals; clippings from general interest magazines and newspapers; a smaller number of complete journals, magazines, and newspapers; books; pamphlets and brochures; informational slide presentations published by government organizations, private companies (such as drug manufacturers), and academics; and other types of print publications. Many of these materials were originally gathered into three-ring binder systems, arranged topically or chronologically. It is not clear whether this collection and arrangement was done by Dr. Valenti for his personal use or by an organization, such as the AIDS Resource Library at Monroe Community College or the Washburn Library at Community Health Network.

Newspaper clippings, 1985-1989 2.0 Linear feet (1 oversize flat storage box)Arrangement

Chronological, then alphabetical within year range. Clippings were originally organized in two binders, one for the years 1985-1987 and the other for the years 1988-1989. Within each binder, they were divided by the source newspaper. This arrangement reflects that original order. Source newspapers all appear to be from New York State, and the local papers include the Democrat and Chronicle and Times Union (Rochester), the Evening Tribune (Hornell), the Finger Lakes Times (Geneva), the Leader (Corning), and the Star Gazette (Elmira).

Scope and Contents

This series consists of slide lectures published by private companies (such as drug manufacturers), government organizations, and academic authors. Some slides may have been incorporated into lectures prepared by Dr. Valenti. (See the series Lectures in the Professional Activities group of this collection).

Processing Information

Most records in this series were originally formatted to be inserted into three-ring binders, with slides housed in clear plastic sleeves and intermixed with text pages. They are now separated, with text housed in folders and slides in slide boxes.

Series 4: Rochester-area AIDS organizations, approximately 1985-1999 10.0 Linear feet (7 document boxes, 2 rolled document boxes)

Scope and Contents

This record group contains materials related to local organizations in the Rochester, NY area that formed in the 1980s in response to the AIDS crisis. They include the AIDS Resource Library, located at Monroe Community College and funded by Monroe County; the Rochester Area Task Force on AIDS; and Community Health Network, the primary care service founded by Dr. Valenti. These materials do not represent the complete records of any of the organizations, but there is quite a bit of administrative information provided for the AIDS Resource Library, including correspondence that documents its founding and initial organization.

The response to AIDS from established Rochester, NY institutions, such as Monroe Community Hospital and the Catholic Diocese of Rochester are represented by a small amount of material.

The collection also includes promotional materials related to the 1992 exhibition of the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt in Rochester.
